NEW SURGERY ON THE CARDS

By Suzi Muston

southend@yellowad.co.uk

A HEALTH centre for 20,000 patients could get the go-ahead in Southend later this year.

Campaigners have called for a new practice to replace the two temporary buildings used to treat patients in Pantile Avenue.

Alison Cowie, head of commissioning for NHS England East, said: "NHS England is pleased that positive steps have been taken regarding the possible relocation of services at St Luke's Health Centre.

"An outline business case will be prepared with a number of different options in respect of the location and services, from which we will choose one option that will be worked up into a full business case.

Campaigners hail plan for shortlist of two sites to replace portable buildings

"The final decision on whether a relocation is the preferred choice and where it should be is expected by the end of the year.

St Luke's ward Independent councillors, Paul Van Looy, Brian Ayling and Caroline Endersby have spearheaded a campaign for a new surgery for almost three years and have been joined by Father James of St Luke's Church, former headmaster Frank Gully and minister Stephen Dray.

Cllr Ayling said: "Running a medical facility from portable buildings is not the ideal way to run a surgery. Finally after many years NHS England is about to propose a shortlist of two sites for a centre.

"One site is on the current site but it will be expanded taking in some of the Temple Sutton School's ground and the other is St Luke's Church that has offered land to NHS England.

"The new centre, if NHS England can find the money, will be sized to meet the demands of the community which will be an initial 10,000-patient register, rising to 15,000 and 20,000 if necessary."

Residents can hear about the future of medical services in Southend next week at a meeting on Thursday at Ferndale Church, North Avenue, Southend, at 7pm.

School's pupils put the 'A' into A levels

Girls lead way as 100 per cent pass rate is praised by headteacher

By Suzi Muston

southend@yellowad.co.uk

SOUTHEND High School for Girls has enjoyed another year of A level success.

Headteacher Fiona Brierley said she was very proud of the outstanding results achieved by the students.

She said: "They worked very hard to achieve a 100 per cent pass rate.

"Our A*-B grades have increased by five per cent at A2 and six per cent at AS level from last year.

"Particular praise should go to the 24 A2 students who achieved three or more A*/A grades, which includes six students going to Oxford or Cambridge and three students into medicine.

"These excellent results bear testament to all the hard work of staff and students; they are highly deserved - I couldn't be prouder."

Eleanor Bleach, from Leigh-on-Sea scored four A* grades.

She will be studying English Literature at her first choice university, UEA.

Eleanor said: "I'm still in a state of ecstatic disbelief. I had moments of self doubt.

"Thank you to everyone who pushed me to succeed."

Leah Dean, from Southend, also achieved four A*s and will now be reading linguistics at Cambridge.

She said: "Thank you to all the teachers for all their hard work. I'm so sad to leave Southend High School for Girls."

Maariya Arshad, from Southend, achieved one A* and two As, which will enable her to study medicine at Nottingham.

She said she was "relieved and excited".

Sophia Shaw, from Southend, matched Maariya's results. She'll now study psychology at Bath.

She said: "I am so happy with my results but so sad to leave Southend High School for Girls."

Nancy Jones, from Shoeburyness, achieved four As and got into her first choice to study politics at the prestigious London School of Economics (LSE).

She said she was "still in shock" about her offer from LSE.

Lydia Prior, from Thorpe Bay, achieved two A*s and two As.

She will study her first choice of history at Bristol University.

SUCCESS: Sixth form students at Southend High School for Girls celebrate their results

HEADING EAST: Eleanor Bleach's four A*s got her into the University of East Anglia

BRISTOL BOUND: Lydia Prior will read history at Bristol University

DOUBLE CELEBRATION: Friends Leah Dean and Sophia Shaw with their results

Southend A levels 'double average'

SOUTHEND Council has congratulated sixth form students on their A level results.

The number of students receiving A* to E grades and the number of students receiving A*-A is double the national average.

More than 1,000 students were entered from Southend schools and results back so far show 100 per cent of candidates achieved at least one A*-E grade.

Of these indicative results, 51.9 per cent gained A*-A grades, compared to national figures of 25.9 per cent, a slight increase for Southend schools on 2014.

Initial figures suggest that there has been a significant improvement in the average grade per entry for both A-levels and vocational results.

This suggests that in the exams taken students gained higher grades overall than in 2014.

Cllr Anne Jones, executive councillor for children and learning, said: "I am also delighted at the result of those achieving A*-A grades, which is double the national average and a tremendous achievement and great for Southend-on-Sea.

"My thoughts are also with those who are still searching for an alternative course or going through university clearing.

"I am confident that they will be supported in their search and in finding a course that is right for them.

"We are committed to providing our schools with the support needed to give pupils the best possible education and we will continue to work as hard as we can with local schools and colleges ensure that we continue to achieve that."

Bike appeal on menu

PUNTERS are pulling together to raise money for a chef's new bike.

Regulars at the Saxon King, in Priory Crescent, Southend, have so far donated £160 for their cook, Dave Nicklas, whose new Whistle bike was snatched.

The father-of-two discovered his ride home missing after staying for a pint at 11.30pm on June 16.

Mr Nicklas, of Western Approach, Eastwood, said: "I was devastated to discover the bike stolen. It was locked and secure.

"My bike was my only form of transport and now it's gone and I'm having to walk six miles for work. From what I've seen, everyone is putting in the pot.

"People are more generous after a couple of pints.

"I'm sure the pub can give a little back if we hit target."

A glass bottle is on the pub counter and regulars have been donating pennies and pounds for a replacement bike costing £400.

Family's brain tumour appeal

She tells the family's story.

By Pat Higgins

southend@yellowad.co.uk

"STEVE is extremely handsome, funny and a bit cheeky," says wife, Angela.

"He's very confident and a bit of a joker."

Steve Lloyd left school to take up an apprenticeship in electrical engineering with London Underground. He spent his whole career there.

But this year he left work after being told his brain tumour was terminal and he had around a year to live.

He wanted to forget about his job and spend time with his family.

"Just a few months ago we told Bethany and Chloe the sad news that their daddy was going to die," explained Angela.

The children were just five and three when Steve was first diagnosed with the inoperable and aggressive glioblastoma multiforme (GBM) brain tumour.

The first sign that anything was wrong came when he had a seizure at home and was taken to hospital by ambulance.

He stayed overnight and, the next morning a doctor said there was nothing to worry about and this type of thing just happened sometimes.

Angela said: "Within a few weeks of Steve having the seizure in October and my 30th birthday on November 22, 2008, our lives changed forever. Doctors discovered an inoperable tumour.

"We went home and talked to the girls. We wanted to create memories which we could cherish in the future and which would stay with the girls forever. We took them to Disneyland in America and to Lapland."

On their ninth wedding anniversary in 2010, Steve and Angela renewed their vows and enjoyed a second honeymoon in Las Vegas.

They travelled to Australia last December and had a three-week road trip, starting in Sydney and travelling along the Gold Coast where they spent Christmas and New Year with close friends.

"We know that from now on things are going to get extremely hard for us all."

In October last year, Steve was told that he had 12 months to live. In January he retired from work on the grounds of ill health, and has since undergone six weeks of full brain radiotherapy.

"At the moment, we're doing OK," said Angela. "Steve and I are very open with each other and talk a lot."

The girls have had counselling and do activities with Little Havens, which is part of Havens Hospice in Westcliff-on-Sea.

While dealing with Steve's illness, the family is also campaigning to help others by raising awareness and cash for the Brain Tumour Research.

"It seems crazy to think that so little investment is made in this area," said Angela.

"More money may result in medical breakthroughs. Where are the clinical trials which could give us that precious extra time? On the flip-side, knowing about Steve's tumour has allowed us to do lovely things together as a family. Some people aren't fortunate enough to have that time."

Bee more friendly

Calls for more plants to help attract insect that's in fast decline

By Suzi Muston

southend@yellowad.co.uk

MORE bee friendly plants should be planted across Southend.

The call comes from Milton ward councillor Julian Ware-Lane who said Southend Council should plant more flowers favoured by the creature, which is in rapid decline.

Experts warn bees are crucial for human health as food supplies rely heavily on them.

Bees contribute over £400million per annum to the UK economy and £10.1billion per annum to the EU economy thanks to their cross pollination.

Cllr Ware-Lane's call comes following the news the Government has partially lifted a ban on bee-killing pesticides called neonicotinoids.

Scientists say neonicotinoids – the world's most used insecticide – are a nerve agent that causes serious damage to bees.

The National Farmers Union (NFU) demanded a lift on the ban claiming they need it for higher yields of rape seed oil.

Cllr Ware-Lane said all local authorities should play their part and help the endangered creature.

"Southend should do its bit and introduce more indigenous bee friendly plants," he said.

"With bee species under threat in the UK, the council should be setting an example through its choice of plant species."

The Bumblebee Conservation Trust said as well as killer pesticides, modern farming techniques had contributed to the decline in bees.

A total of 97 per cent of the wildflowers in the countryside since the 1930s have been destroyed – bees rely entirely upon flowers for food.

Southend Council says it does not use the neonicotinoid pesticide.

Cllr Graham Longley, executive councillor for enterprise, tourism, and economic development, agreed with Cllr Ware Lane and said the authority should set a good example and use plants that are friendly to all pollinating insects.

He said: "I am pleased to say that wherever possible and suitable we are doing just that."

"Unfortunately they are not suitable for every single location but there are many within our many award-winning parks, gardens and open spaces."

"The planting within these parks could not flourish without their pollen being spread by bees and hundreds of species of other insects which are also important pollinators – hoverflies, wasps, moths, beetles and butterflies."

"Without pollinating insects not only would the environment be a much drabber place, food production and the economy would also be seriously damaged."

"In recognition of this, the council is working on a strategy to help promote the conservation of pollinators within the borough to continue and build on the good work that we are already doing on this issue."

A spokesman for the Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) confirmed it had lifted the ban on the deadly pesticide.

A spokesman said: "The NFU said they needed the department to lift the ban on neonicotinoids."

"After much negotiation, both parties agreed to partially lift the ban [on neonicotinoids] on UK rape seed crops."

Fascinating bee facts

Bumblebees can sense the electric field that surrounds a flower.

They can distinguish between fields produced by different floral shapes, and find out whether a flower has been recently visited by other bees.

They can also discriminate between fields of different shapes, which in turn depend on the shape of a flower's petals and how easily they conduct electricity.

Bees love purple coloured flowers such as heather, lavender and cornflower. They also love red and yellow flowers such as sunflowers, snapdragons, hollyhocks, raspberry and golden rod.

AN ANIMAL physiotherapy centre has raised £400 for the Guide Dogs charity.

Kate Parsons, who runs Footfalls, in Southend Road, Leigh, has pledged to donate £10 from every £15 canine summer fun swim. Owners use the service to help pets restore movement after they have been affected by injury, illness or disability.

The hydrotherapy helps dogs that have suffered strokes, muscle weakness, muscle strains and tendon damage. The fundraiser will run until the end of August.

Beach closed over 'death' risk

SCORES of dog walkers say they are upset because they have been prevented from using the beach along Gunners Park and Shoebury Garrison.

Two giant slabs of concrete have been lodged at the entrance to the beach to prevent people accessing the foreshore, which is owned by the Ministry of Defence (MoD).

Shoebury Independent councillor Mike Assenheim said: "People are not allowed on the beach here. There actually could be unexploded bombs there and the land was used as a firing range."

The MoD can be seen regularly patrolling the area in tractor-type vehicles.

Councillor Assenheim added: "The MoD have stepped up their patrols now. This area has always had a ban and has been this way since the army left this site in 1999."

The land sits opposite the new apartments which overlook the seafront beauty spot, built by Country and Metropolitan Homes.

A spokesman for Country and Metropolitan Homes said it had put the concrete barriers in place.

He added: "It beggars belief that people would want to walk on a beach owned by the MoD who has clearly signposted as dangerous and highlighted there is a risk of death."

"At present, we own the 1.8km of sea wall which borders the beach whilst it is being repaired. We anticipate being in a position to hand the wall over to the council in September. Until then, as the owners of the sea wall, we have a duty of care to take every reasonable step available to us to ensure we do not enable people to put themselves in harm's way."

"We liaised with the council about blocking the access in the sea wall to fulfil our obligations as a responsible developer and they agreed our course of action. Various attempts to block this access have historically been undertaken, but none have been successful."

"We find it extraordinary this story has not focused on protecting the public rather than frustrating a few carefree dog walkers."

"We can only hope that people heed the MoD's warnings and do not bypass our physical barriers, as no one wants to see a news story about someone being injured or killed on the beach."

A spokesman from QinetiQ, which manages the site on behalf of the Ministry of Defence (MoD), said: "The stretch of foreshore between Shoeburyness East beach and the slipway at Ness Road is part of the MoD Range Sea Danger Area and is regulated by MoD byelaws."

"As such, public access remains prohibited at all times."

NEWS

Warning over wire danger in woods

CYCLISTS, walkers and horse riders have been warned to be wary using Belfairs Woods.

The warning comes after a cyclist found a piece of wire suspended seven feet off the ground between two trees.

It was found on a popular mountain bike trek inside the woods on Sunday.

Richard Toomey, who runs Southend firm Comfy Saddle, said: "Most of the cycling community have been made aware of this incident, thanks to Facebook and Twitter, everyone really made an effort.

"This could have been very bad news for either a cyclist, horse rider, or even a dog walker who turned around at the wrong moment and didn't see the wire.

"Garotting is very serious. Everyone is hoping this doesn't happen again."

A council spokesman said: "Once we were made aware officers visited the site to ensure that it [the wire] had been removed.

"Staff working at the site have been made aware and will remain vigilant and we would of course encourage anyone who finds this sort of thing to take it down themselves and also report it to us."

Illegal ravers on beach leave a mess

and rubbish. Thousands of people flocked to East Beach to supposedly celebrate Jamaican Independence Day on Sunday, August 9, an event which the council said was "unauthorised".

The council said organisers did not have a permit for the event which meant the authority did not know it was happening and were left unprepared.

Police sent a helicopter to monitor the site but some residents said they felt not enough was done to stop the gathering.

Mike Assenheim, independent councillor for Shoebury, said he received several complaints.

He added: "At 8pm I walked around the site covered by this time with rubbish and empty alcohol bottles left by the ravers, and at the same time getting covered by the smell of smoked drugs."

Cooper to cut it as Labour Party leader

The British first-past-the-post general elections are won or lost in marginal seats where – miraculously – it can go either way with the electorate and which, for all practical purposes, are merely a handful of the 650 seats up for grabs at any such time.

In fact, our general elections can be viewed, for the self-same practical purposes, as merely 650 local elections in which the vast majority of individual constituency outcomes is never actually in doubt.

I say “miraculously” as I live in one of the safest Conservative seats in the land – the admittedly lovely, leafy, Thameside constituency of Southend West Essex – in which my vote is, sadly, forever doomed to be sacramental rather than instrumental.

I wish things were different but they are not, and whether the country will ever embrace proportional representation to redress this imbalance is a decidedly moot point.

But I do know, in the present circumstances and barring miracles, that Southend West will always return a Tory MP to Westminster regardless – albeit the current one was lost to his beloved Basildon some years back but that is another story.

If Jeremy Corbyn in the Labour leadership contest can motivate those who are not usually so motivated then that is admirably good news for the Labour Party, but it cannot go unnoticed that these will not affect the marginal effect as most of them do not inhabit such parts. And if politics is the “Art of the Possible”, such an art must surely be practicably possible or it is not going to happen.

As Mr Corbyn certainly can't cut it that way, it seems to me that a first woman leader of the Labour Party – in the form of Yvette Cooper – could infinitely slice it far more satisfactorily overall.

No public cash for Cliffs Museum

THE Cliffs Museum must not be built with public money.

My objection to building on green spaces is well documented.

While I would not say “never”, I need to be convinced of real need before I would be prepared to endorse concreting over any of the remaining green spaces in Southend-on-Sea.

This was largely why I objected to the proposals for the Cliffs Museum.

I accept I lost that argument, not enough in the council chamber shared my views.

However, I am still convinced that putting a museum on the beautiful cliffs is a mad and bad scheme.

It was approved, and only awaits sufficient funding.

This funding, it has so far been hoped, will come from private backers.

I take solace in my belief that this is unlikely to provide the estimated £40million required.

I hope, though, that no idea surfaces suggesting that any shortfall should be made up from public coffers.

Aside from the issue of what has to be sacrificed (that is, cut) to make this happen, the lack of private investment surely suggests that this project is not a money-maker.

Public money should not, again, be wasted on a project in Southend-on-Sea that sees good money effectively thrown away.

The last administration was very profligate, a fate thus far avoided by the joint administration.

I wonder how much has been donated so far?

I expect it is a fraction of what is needed, and long may that continue.

It may soon be time to consider alternate venues for the Prittlewell Prince (or whatever is his actual true title).

Maybe the old Beecroft Gallery, opposite the Cliffs Pavilion, could be adapted.

Gobsmacked at row over Mo's portrait

WITH regard to Mo Larkin's portrait in the Bas Centre, I am amazed at the response of representatives of Basildon Council to the question of its whereabouts.

It is normal practice for portraits of chairmen of councils, past and present, to be hung within the council buildings, usually somewhere prominent.

In County Hall there is a corridor of past chairmen. Mrs Larkin in this respect is no different to any of them.

It is a tradition in this country to display portraits of prominent local people and civic dignitaries in public buildings. Before the usual critics start banging on about how it came out of the public purse, it did not. It was paid for privately by a friend of Mrs Larkin's.

As was her chain of office, over which there was also an undignified tug-of-war after her term of office ended.

I was with Mo when she noticed the portrait wasn't there and she found it distressing because no one had told her what had happened to it.

As for people finding it offensive, when I have been around Basildon with Mrs Larkin, who is a personal friend, I have seen nothing but warmth and respect from people when they see her.

Those acquainted with her know her to be a kindly individual who often puts herself out for others.

I am gobsmacked at the ludicrousness of the idea that someone might find the portrait offensive. I have an idea which individual finds it so, or at least which small group of people have taken umbrage at it. Likely the same ones that create dissent in the council chamber. Also the executive and leadership at the Bas Centre have shown themselves to be truly yellow-bellied by caving in to whoever has raised an objection.

Absolutely pathetic. Given that Mrs Larkin has served Basildon better than all of them put together.

She has raised the profile of the town and with that thousands of pounds for charities.

Those “offended” by the picture will have to go a hell of a long way to match this performance. And those who have kowtowed to this “offended” minority were nowhere to be seen when Mrs Larkin suffered abuse at the hands of local media, generated by a handful of people both inside and outside the council chamber. Utter cowardice. You know who you are. You badly need to grow a pair.

Petty and short-sighted council

AS a resident and in light of all the charity work and good work that Mo Larkin did for Basildon during her service, I find the taking down of this portrait offensive.

Not only is it offensive, it is rather petty and short-sighted of the council she served so well.

Let's hope some respect is shown for the former Basildon mayor and future mayors' positions and a sensible way will be found for their portraits to remain in the St George's suite or wherever the main council meetings may take place.

Traffic cops' swoop nets 106 offenders

POLICE issued 106 motorists with tickets on the A127 Prince Avenue near Chalkwell Avenue.

Officers from the Essex Police casualty reduction unit carried out roadside checks for offences such as speeding, using a mobile phone, not wearing seat belts or driving without insurance or valid driving documents.

A total of 69 people were given tickets for not wearing seatbelts, while 37 motorists received them for using a mobile phone while driving.

Police said they face either a £100 fine and three points on their licences or they may be offered a national driver education course, costing £100 but without penalty points.

Other checks led to 22

motorists being penalised for not having a valid MOT and four for no insurance, with one car seized.

Two drivers were given speeding tickets and four were issued with notices to get vehicle defects fixed.

One driver was stopped from taking their vehicle any further due to worn tyres and a cracked windscreen.

Top cops appeal for public to give feedback on force

QUESTIONS: Police want residents to share their views on crime-fighting

Police survey will boost confidence

ESSEX Police has urged residents to take part in a survey.

The online form asks people to share their views on the best and worst aspects of policing across the county.

The force insisted all responses were totally confidential.

An Essex Police spokesman said: "It will seek to explore how communities would like to communicate with the police and also how officers and staff could improve the confidence of the public in our service."

The survey, open to all residents aged 18 or over, will be live online until September 15.

The force is running it in conjunction with academics from Anglia Ruskin University.

To fill out the questionnaire, visit: <http://tinyurl.com/Essex-Police-Survey2015>.

SENSATIONAL: Jackson Live in Concert, starring Ben Bowman, will be at Basildon's Towngate Theatre on September 2

Not the greatest acts in the world...

..THIS IS JUST A TRIBUTE

By LIZ WADE

MUSIC from The Eagles, Abba and Michael Jackson will entertain audiences at three theatres across the county next month, when a number of outstanding tribute acts take to the stage.

Jackson Live in Concert, starring Ben Bowman and his incredible live band and dancers, will be at Basildon's Towngate Theatre on Wednesday, September 2, with the ultimate Michael Jackson experience.

Ben, whose portrayal of Jackson has been described as the most accurate and exciting tribute to the King of Pop to have ever toured UK theatres, has been obsessed with the late star since as far back into his childhood as he can remember.

From a Michael Jackson-themed birthday party when he was seven, to copying his signature dance moves, Ben dreamed of being a performer just like him.

At the age of 17 he booked a function hall to promote his very own Michael Jackson Tribute Show, and to his amazement it sold out. Today, 10 years later, he is still entertaining audiences with a show that is the ultimate tribute to Jackson, one of the most influential artists of all time.

Jackson Live in Concert sees Ben recreate the Michael Jackson experience with a stunning rendition of all his favourite songs. With the look, the moonwalk and the voice, Ben will work his way through all the hits with the help of his incredible band and dancers.

Expect sensational renditions of Thriller, Beat It and Billie Jean, all-live vocals, fabulous costumes and, of course, the signature dance moves associated so fondly with the undisputed King of Pop.

Another tribute act that has been thrilling audiences across the country are The Illegal Eagles, who appear at the Cliffs Pavilion, Southend, on Saturday, September 12.

The band, who have been together for more than 18 years, are looking forward to returning to the road once again this year with their new association with Derek Block Concert Promotions – one of the UK's most established and successful worldwide promoters.

Following a number of critically acclaimed UK and international tours, and headlining countless concerts and festivals, the band have established themselves as not only the official number one tribute to The Eagles, but one of the foremost authentic and talented theatrical experiences in the world.

Shaken but not stirred

SUITS YOU: Armie Hammer and Henry Cavill in The Man From U.N.C.L.E.

The Man From U.N.C.L.E. (12A) 116 mins

MORE than 50 years after the achingly cool TV series The Man From U.N.C.L.E. exploited Cold War paranoia for rollicking entertainment, director Guy Ritchie continues to explore fractious male dynamics in this globe-trotting spy caper.

The unlikely pairing of suave American agent Napoleon Solo and tightly coiled Ukrainian rival Ilya Kuryakin during the Cold War remains unchanged in Ritchie's script, co-written by Lionel Wigram.

While the original pairing of Robert Vaughn and David McCallum lent swagger and smouldering sex appeal to the politically divided operatives, Ritchie's good-looking men from U.N.C.L.E. – Armie Hammer and Henry Cavill – radiate impeccably tailored style over substance and sizzle.

James Bond could arch an eyebrow and exude more charisma than either leading man manages here as they attempt to wrench a nuclear warhead from the clutches of a criminal network.

The film is having a laugh to suggest that these strapping and chiselled agents, both over six feet tall, could conduct covert surveillance without drawing attention.

Ritchie evidently agrees and stokes homoerotic embers with a thinly veiled declaration of sexual preference that will prick up the ears of gay audiences as the men attempt to simultaneously pick two locks on a door and evade capture.

These throwaway moments, including an appearance by Pussy Galore's helicopter from Goldfinger, are symbolic of a film that has the right ingredients but no clear sense how to blend everything smoothly.

Victoria Vinciguerra (Elizabeth Debicki) is the beautiful mastermind of a criminal organisation, which hopes to destabilise global peace using a warhead armed by nuclear scientist Udo Teller (Christian Berkel).

CIA handler Sanders (Jared Harris) instructs his debonair agent Napoleon Solo (Cavill) to join forces with KGB counterpart Ilya Kuryakin (Hammer) to thwart Victoria's nefarious plan.

The two men bicker and brood, give each other pet names ("Red Peril" and "Cowboy"), and dangle Udo's car mechanic daughter Gaby (Alicia Vikander) as bait to flush the scientist out of hiding.

En route, the agents clash with Gaby's sadistic uncle (Sylvester Groth) and forge an alliance with an unflappable British agent, Alexander Waverly (Hugh Grant).

The Man From U.N.C.L.E. lovingly evokes the textures, polish and poise of an era that rebelled against post-war drabness, with fine contributions from production designer Oliver Scholl and costume designer Joanna Johnston.

The soundtrack jives to jazzy beats, matched by Ritchie's measured direction, which thankfully avoids some of his usual showboating.

If looks were everything, the film would twist and shout in snazzy kaleidoscopic split screens.

However, characters are poorly developed and on-screen chemistry between the leading men and a shamefully underused Vikander is tepid.

"For a special agent, you're not having a very special day," Waverly quips to Kuryakin after one chase sequence.

On this handsomely crafted yet bland evidence, nor is Ritchie.

Stage

Soaring vocals and Swedish icons

From page 23

Extremely tight harmonies and an acute attention to detail have always been synonymous with The Illegal Eagles. Members Phil Aldridge, Keith Atack, Al Vosper, Darin Murphy, Gareth Hicklin and award-winning vocalist Greg Webb's ability to capture the emotion of Don Henley's vocal deliveries have ensured that critical and audience acclaim has been unanimous.

This latest production brings you all the classics – Hotel California, Take It Easy, Take it to the Limit, Lyin' Eyes, Tequila Sunrise, Life in the Fast Lane, One of These Nights, Witchy Woman, Rocky Mountain Way, Heartache Tonight and a whole lot more.

Equally as entertaining will be Waterloo – The Best of Abba tribute show, which will be at Palace Theatre, Southend, on Sunday, September 27.

The production, presented by Sweeney Entertainments and produced and directed by James Baker, is a new show that celebrates the music of one of the best-selling music acts of all time.

In 1974 the little known Swedish pop group Abba swept to superstardom with their Eurovision-winning song Waterloo, and four decades later it and the band remain as popular as ever.

The phenomenal tribute show, Waterloo, looks back at the rise to stardom of Agnetha Fältskog, Björn Ulvaeus, Benny Andersson, and Anni-Frid Lyngstad, and gives fans the opportunity to experience the thrill of a live Abba show.

Replicating the Abba sound and paying incredible attention to detail, Waterloo has a full live cast and band, as well as stunning costumes and outstanding choreography.

The wonderful lyrics penned by Benny and Björn are sung in wonderful, captivating harmony from the opening refrain to the final singalong chorus of this two-hour spectacular.

Country shows for all the family

PUT a date in your diary for two exceptional country shows offering fun and entertainment for the whole family next month.

Every year hundreds of people and animals descend on Orsett Showground on the first Saturday in September for the Orsett Show. This year's event, which is its 109th, runs from 9am to 5pm on September 5.

Set in 30 acres of countryside the show is one of the most popular family events in Thurrock, as well as one of the oldest one-day country shows in England.

The aim of the show, which is a registered charity run mainly by volunteers, is to promote countryside matters, the borough of Thurrock and local businesses, and brings some 300 companies, schools, organisations and charities together to promote themselves, sell products, inform and network, all during a fun-filled family day, which attracted more than 13,500 people last year.

This year's event will include horticulture, agriculture, hobbies and handicraft, school, and craft markets, as well as more than 150 trade stands.

A programme of exciting displays are planned for the Grand Display Ring including horse and hounds, a grand parade, Bob Hogg Sheep Dog Display, Inch Perfect Motorbike Trials and a birds of prey display.

There will also be events and competitions in the Horse Rings, and a family stage area offering entertainment throughout the day from groups and clubs.

Another event that has become an annual favourite in September is the Essex Country Show at Barleylands, Billericay.

The show, which runs across Saturday and Sunday, September 12-13, was once an Essex farming family's informal gathering of half a dozen steam engines.

It is now the largest of its type in the south east, with an average of 35,000 visitors attending across the weekend for the past six years.

Showcasing agricultural history and rural crafts, this year's event will be packed with activities for the whole family, as well as arena shows such as the Newfoundland dog rescue display, medieval jousting and motorbike displays from Britain's Got Talent semi-finalists Bolddog Lings.

This year's show, which will be the 29th event, has character singalongs with the Snow Sisters, a vintage fairground including a steam-driven carousel and a 60ft ferris wheel, model boat races on the lake, and working heavy horses who will be ploughing up the land and pulling fire engines.

Alongside monstrous ploughing engines, road laying engines, steam engines and the beautifully decorated showman's engines, you can see more than 60 model steam engines, as well as more than 300 classic cars, vintage military vehicles and motorbikes, from the 1930s Ford Model T through to the much loved classics of the 1960s.

Visitors will also be transported back to old England by joining in demonstrations showcasing the skills of yesteryear, from boat building and barrel making to spoon carving.

GOLDEN GRILL KEBAB HOUSE

ENJOY extensive choice, value-for-money and outstanding cuisine at a long established takeaway in Southend.

Golden Grill Kebab House, at 482 Southchurch Road, has been serving a vast range of delicious dishes to the local community, as well as to those further afield, for the past 26 years.

Its owner, Ali, who previously owned successful Plaza Pizza in Southend as well as Leigh Pizza in Leigh-on-Sea, and both Crooks Kebabs and Star Kebabs, went on to open the Golden Grill Kebab House back in 1989.

Combine his extensive experience, with outstanding service and delicious food, all freshly cooked and prepared on the premises by a team of highly skilled chefs, and you can see how the takeaway has stood the test of time.

Golden Grill Kebab House, which was awarded a five star Food Hygiene Rating by Southend-on-Sea Borough Council in June this year, offers a wide range of kebabs to suit all tastes including doner, shish, chicken shish, chicken doner, kofte, mixed doner, mixed kebab and vegetarian kebab, as well as its House Special - kofte, chicken shish, doner kebab, vegetarian kebab and chips. If you want something equally as filling, without the pitta bread, then opt for doner, chicken or mixed doner meat served with chips.

While its name reflects the extensive range of kebabs it has on offer, there is so much more available for customers from pizza and burgers, to southern fried chicken and side dishes.

Its chefs freshly prepare the dough for its popular pizza bases on the premises daily, with either 9" or 12" options for customers. All of their pizzas are topped with mozzarella cheese and customers can choose from all the classics from cheese and tomato to pepperoni, and ham and pineapple. There is also a Golden Special pizza including pepperoni, ham, chicken, mushroom, sweetcorn, onion and pepper; a House

Special including chicken, ham, onion, pineapple and sweetcorn; and a Vegetarian Special - topped with mushroom, pineapple, onion, sweetcorn and peppers. Go for their 12" pizza special offer with any three toppings as well as garlic bread, chips, coleslaw and a bottle of drink and enjoy a feast for just £12.50.

Enjoy delicious southern fried chicken pieces, nuggets or hot wings, or feed the whole family with a Golden Bucket containing eight pieces of chicken, four portions of chips or spicy potatoes, coleslaw and a bottle of soft drink, all for just £12.

Its quality burgers, made from 100 per cent quality beef and cooked on a flat grill, include plain or cheese 1/4 pounders, or cheese with either pineapple, bacon or egg, all with a choice of salad and sauce. There are also 1/2 pounder options, as well as chicken burgers and vegetarian burgers to enjoy, and even bacon rolls.

There are also a range of value-for-money Kids' Meals for just £3, including a choice of burger, cheese burger, chicken nuggets or one piece of chicken, all of which come with chips and a soft drink of either Pepsi or 7-up. You can also choose their kids' doner meat option for just £3.50.

This is all complemented by a range of side orders from cheesy chips and salad, to spicy potatoes and onion rings, as well as desserts such as cheesecake, trifle and chocolate eclairs.

They also offers a free delivery service within the local area from 5pm to 11.30pm every day for orders over £10, with deals including a free bottle of drink with orders over £20.

Golden Grill Kebab House is open from 4pm to midnight from Sunday to Thursday, and from 4pm to 2am on Friday and Saturday nights. For further information or to make a delivery order call 01702 614191.

The restaurant will also be serving a Boxing Day four-course banquet for just £15.95 for adults and £9.50 for children under 10.

Throughout the year diners are invited to party at Blue Chutney thanks to its Drinks Promotion every Wednesday and Friday evening.

Enjoy a starter, main course, side dish, rice or naan bread from the menu (king prawn £3.30 extra), as well as much drink as you want for one hour and 45 minutes. You must book your table in advance to enjoy this offer, which costs £20.95 per person on Wednesdays and £25.95 on Fridays.

Lost in the meze of Akropolis

Advertisement feature

ONE of the area's most popular Greek restaurants has attracted a growing band of fans since opening its doors more than 10 years ago and it is easy to see why.

With 25 main dishes, 28 starters, two set meals, and a variety of desserts on the menu, there is always something new to try at the Akropolis in Westcliff.

For those with a huge appetite to satisfy, Akropolis serves up a Greek meze menu every day for £20.95 per person.

The menu, which introduces diners to the Cypriot way of eating, starts with tasty dips and pitta bread, and is followed by cold starters and fish dishes, Cypriot wine sausages, smoked loin of pork and grilled goat's milk cheese.

Then it's onto the meats, and even klefiko and stifado for those looking for more.

To finish diners are given Greek pastries and an array of fresh fruits.

The Akropolis Meze, available for two or more people, is ideal for parties as the menu is meant to be lingered over.

There is also a Klefiko Feast, including traditional dips and pitta bread, klefiko, Greek pastries and a platter of fresh fruits, for £18.95 per person.

The mouth-watering food is not the only Akropolis attraction – the restaurant also produces a great line in live music on most days throughout the week.

The restaurant, which can comfortably seat up to 60 people and has a well-stocked, fully licensed bar, can cater for everything from a quiet meal for two to birthday celebrations.

With its experienced chefs and friendly, helpful staff, Akropolis offers a top quality, value-for-money evening out.

Akropolis, which can also satisfy any special dietary needs and offers children-friendly dishes, is open seven days a week, from 5pm to midnight from Monday to Thursday, from 5pm to 1am on Friday and Saturday, and from noon to midnight on Sunday.

The restaurant is located at 120 Station Road,

Westcliff, and ample parking is available just 50 yards away, by the Cliffs Pavilion.

Ask the Agent

Alan Kirkman

Q. I have just discovered that I have Japanese knotweed in the garden. How big a problem is this?

A. Introduced into the UK in the middle of the 19th century, Japanese Knotweed is today one of the most – if not the most – invasive plant species in the country, capable of doing all sorts of serious damage to buildings. Plant-wise, in other words, we're talking about Britain's public enemy number one.

The issue of Japanese knotweed was of course highlighted just last month, when the Government was forced to admit defeat in the fight against it, conceding that it would be too expensive to deal with. The announcement followed decades of Government attempts to destroy it – including an unlikely-sounding initiative involving the release of thousands of Japanese knotweed-loving insects into the environment. Sadly, they disliked the British climate and all died.

Where private property is concerned, people are perfectly entitled to grow Japanese knotweed in their gardens if they wish. Indeed, it is quite attractive – in moderation. Nevertheless, if you are thinking of selling, I would strongly advise you to take the necessary steps to eradicate the stuff before you put your home on the market. Any surveyor who spots it will almost certainly mention the fact in his report, and some lenders are understandably wary of it – so you could even end up losing your buyer as a result.

Notwithstanding the Government's decision, the good news is that Japanese knotweed is not a completely unsolvable problem. Specialist eradication firms can certainly get rid of the stuff, using powerful chemicals. Or you can have a go yourself – by cutting the hollow stems down to about 6 inches (the best time to do this is late summer), and filling them with a suitable glyphosate-based weedkiller. You may have to do this two or three times, but it should work in the end.

Whatever you do, don't try digging it up. Like bindweed, Japanese Knotweed is perfectly capable of regenerating itself from a tiny sliver of root, so it is virtually impossible to get rid of in this way. In any case, all parts of this plant, and any soil contaminated with it, are officially classed as controlled waste. This means that it must be properly disposed of according to the appropriate Environment Agency regulations, preferably by a specialist waste carrier.

Landlord Question

I have heard that tenancies are automatically assured shorthold tenancies (AST) and that a tenant is, therefore, entitled to a minimum term of at least six months. Suppose I rent my house out and there is a vacant gap of say three months between two long-term tenants which I would like to fill with a short three-month contract. Does this six-month minimum rule on ASTs mean that it is impossible for me to enforce a fixed three-month term for a short-term tenant? Other people have told me yes, which seems ridiculous!

Think Property Answer

Since 28 February 1997, all tenancies in England and Wales are automatically assured shorthold tenancies under section 19A of the Housing Act 1996 - unless the landlord specifically grants an assured tenancy in writing, which is a rare occurrence today.

The AST will have a statutory minimum of six months security of tenure - whether the tenancy was granted verbally or in writing - because an order for possession cannot take effect earlier than six months after the beginning of the tenancy under section 21(5) of the Housing Act 1988.

There is nothing to prevent you from granting a short-term three-month tenancy to a tenant. If the tenant agrees to leave when the three-month fixed term ends, there is no problem.

However, you will have a problem if the tenant refuses to leave by mutual surrender at the end of the three months. You would then have to gain possession through the court in order to evict the tenant and that would initially require service of a notice seeking possession under section 21 (1) (b) of the Housing Act 1988 within the fixed term, or a section 21 (4) notice if the fixed period has expired.

You could then apply for a possession order as soon as the notice has expired, but the date for possession could be no earlier than six months after the start date of the tenancy. For example, if the tenancy commenced 1 January, 2013, the earliest date that a court could order possession would be 30 June, 2013.

You would not be able to install a new tenant into the accommodation until you have lawfully gained possession and evicted the previous tenant.

Seat's city cutie you'll want to cuddle

By Peter Keenan

THE Mii is many things but it is unquestionably the best city car ever to sport the Seat badge.

Along with sister models, the Skoda Citigo and VW up! it has raised the bar for models in this market.

Seat has plenty of previous when it comes to making value for money small motors with a touch of Latin design flair about them, and it puts this experience to good use with the Mii – which is available in three and five-door versions.

The exterior features a distinctive front end – inspired by larger siblings Ibiza and Leon – with trademark Seat grille and stylish large headlights while the rear gets a neat set of tail lights. There are also 14-inch alloy wheels with titanium finish.

It's a car you want to cuddle and this feel-good factor is carried over when you get behind the wheel.

Power is provided by a fuel efficient 1.0-litre three cylinder engine – offering outputs of either 60ps or 75ps – linked to a slick five-speed manual gearbox.

The former version I tested has a 0-62mph time slightly faster than a sloth, but the official time of 14.4 seconds does no justice to how nippy the Mii feels around town.

It takes on the urban jungle with a combination of dexterous handling and sharp steering that makes it a delight to drive. It's no slouch on the motorway either and little in the way of wind and road noise makes it into the cabin.

COMPACT AND SPACIOUS:
SEAT Mii I-TECH 1.0 60PS

Comfort is assured by a soft suspension set-up that treats the humps and hollows littering our roads with disdain. There's enough grip to inspire confidence and although there is a bit of body roll the Mii is reasonably assured.

As well as the entry-level S model the Mii also comes in Ecomotive, SE, I-TEC, Sport, and the fashionista's choice – the Mii by Mango. The I-TEC's main claim to fame is a five-inch touchscreen Seat Portable System – on top of a grey gloss lacquer dashboard insert – which has satellite navigation, Bluetooth phone and audio streaming functions, as well as a Micro SD card slot for music storage.

Numerous ways to personalise your Mii are available through styling packs offered as optional extras. Safety equipment is also plentiful with driver, front passenger, side and curtain airbags all included as well as electronic stability control, hill hold control and a tyre pressure monitoring system.

Despite its compact dimensions – it measures just three-and-a-half metres long – the Mii offers a surprising amount of space.

Four adults can be accommodated in comfort although those in the rear have to make do with windows that don't wind down. There are electric front windows but Seat neglected to fit a passenger window switch for the driver which can be a pain.

However, boot space is excellent with 251 litres of space with all seats in place.

This can be expanded to a mammoth 951 litres load area when those seats are lowered. There is also a double-layered floor allowing you to pick either boosted capacity or a flat loading bay. One bug bear though is the rear shelf which doesn't lift with the tailgate so keeps dropping down as you load or unload the car.

Plenty of cubby holes are dotted around for keys and glasses, while large storage bins in the doors swallow most other items with ease. The Mii is an economical and affordable city car with low running costs that's a little winner for Seat.

BLUES GIVEN A TOUGH LESSON

Southend United

Southend United 0 Walsall 2
Brian Jeeves reporting from
Roots Hall Stadium

OUT-OF-SORTS Southend United were given a lesson on just how difficult life will be in League One after goals from Tom Bradshaw and Sam Mantom condemned Blues to a frustrating defeat.

Despite Tuesday's injury-time Capital One Cup defeat at the hands of Brighton and Hove Albion, Blues boss Phil Brown would have seen plenty to appreciate.

He bolstered his options in mid-field, handing Irishman Gary Deegan his first league start of the season.

Roots Hall has been a far from a happy hunting ground for Walsall.

They arrived having won just three times in 20 previous visits.

Buoyed by a thrilling Capital One Cup victory at Championship side Nottingham Forest and with leading marksman Bradshaw in arguably the best form of his career, the Saddlers were confident in going some way towards rectifying that record.

But it was the Blues who were quickest out of the blocks, and should have grabbed the lead when Joe Pigott's angled strike was turned aside by Saddlers goalkeeper Neil Etheridge, and David Mooney sent his close range follow-up attempt the wrong side of an upright.

Blues were made to pay for the early miss. Bradshaw pounced on slack defending and fired a low drive beyond Daniel Bentley to hand the Black Country outfit the lead.

Blues were clearly stunned by the setback. Saddlers defender James O'Connor sliced clear after Myles Weston's dangerous centre had caused the visitors a problem.

Then Ryan Leonard's low cross eluded a clutch of potential takers as the home side looked for a way back. But the Saddlers should have doubled their advantage when Sam Mantom fired tamely at Bentley after Romaine Sawyers had picked him out.

Despite the Blues toil, it was Walsall who played the crisper football.

Brown made a tactical switch, bringing on Jack Payne in place of David Mooney in a bid to stifle the Saddlers midfield dominance. But as the half wore on it was the visitors who looked the more impressive. Manton's deflected attempt found Bentley's midriff, while Jason Demitriou's stinging drive was charged down by Adam Barrett.

After the break Blues were first to threaten, but Etheridge expertly dealt with Weston's low centre.

Then Pigott was off-target as the home side showed a little more purpose. But before Southend could make any headway their troubles deepened. Andy Taylor's cross was deflected into the path of Manton, who despatched a neat right-footed strike past Bentley to double the visitors' lead.

Soon after it should have been 3-0. Leonard's last-ditch tackle thwarting the danger as Sawyers looked certain to score.

Leonard was involved at the other end, firing just over as Blues looked for a foothold, but they looked some way off the pace and devoid of ideas going forward.

The Roots Hall faithful were briefly given hope when Anthony Wordsworth headed home David Worrall's cross, but their celebration were short-lived as hawk-eyed assistant's flag.

Substitute Worrall continued to offer some kind of resistance from a Southend perspective, but Etheridge was equal to his low strike from distance.

Then Demitriou hacked off the line after the former Bury man had knocked Leonard's flag-kick goalwards.

At the other end, Bentley produced a smart stop to prevent Mantom from adding to his, and the visitors' account.

Etheridge denied both Hurst and Payne during a late Blues rally, while former Saddlers man Hurst disappointingly hit the side netting after finding some room behind the visitors' backline.

But in truth the home side were unconvincing and had not done enough to deserve anything from the game.

Bentley produced a superb one-handed save in stoppage time to deny Jordan Cook as Walsall looked to compound the Blues misery, while Cian Bolger's close range miss seemed to sum up Southend's disappointing afternoon.

In an honest assessment of his team selection, Brown admitted: "I got it wrong, totally wrong. I totally blame myself for the team selection, not the fact that we were too positive but we just discussed that last season we got a foothold in the division that we were playing in by playing in a 4-3-3. But today we were so open, very uncharacteristically."

"You can blame systems, you can blame individuals, but our mentality wasn't right today."

When quizzed if he was disappointed with the players, Brown stated: "We've got enough experience to do that, but at the same time when you're chasing the game you have a different kind of mentality. You start taking risks etc. Today wasn't about taking risks, chances will come eventually, but the bottom line was that we were that open it could have been more than two if truth be known."

"We raised the gallop in the second half and we did threaten the goal, but we've ended up comfortably beaten."

When asked by Yellow Sport about making additions to his squad, Brown said: "Yes, we are working at bringing one or two in before the game on Wednesday. If that happens, fantastic. I still think we need two, possibly three before the deadline closes."

Blues midfielder Payne said: "We didn't start well and they punished us, so that was frustrating to see."

"Today we weren't unlucky, we deserved to lose to be fair."

On his early introduction into the game, Payne added: "I'm always ready, but it was a bit surprising how early it was. Obviously I'm glad I got the opportunity. I think it was quite obvious what he [Brown] wanted me to do, and I had to try and change it."

Blues will look to register their first Sky Bet League One victory of the campaign when they travel to Doncaster Rovers tonight (Wednesday, 7.45pm), before facing Swindon Town at Roots Hall on Saturday at 3pm.

Non-league round-up

Three-sy does it for Billericay Town

By Brian Jeeves

VANARAMA National League South Chelmsford City were among the goals, hammering Hayes & Yeading United 4-0 at the Melbourne Stadium. An own goal from Jake Nicholson and a Luke Daley strike put the Clarets in the driving seat at the break. The home side completed a thoroughly professional performance when Marvel Ekpiteta and Billy Bricknell completed the rout.

But rivals Concord Rangers suffered their first setback of the campaign when second-half goals from White and Wright cancelled out Tony Stokes's early opener at Truro City. The Beach Boys' misery was compounded when Stokes received his marching orders in the closing stages.

In the National League's top division Braintree Town held former Football League outfit Tranmere Rovers to a goalless draw at Cressing Road.

In Ryman Premier Division, Billericay Town were the region's big winners, seeing off Enfield Town 3-0 at New Lodge. Derry, Beavan and Sodje were on target as the Blues earned their first victory of the season.

O'Rawe and Ngandu struck in the opening period as Brentwood Town comfortably saw off VCD Athletic at the Arena, while DD Dumaka and Bradley Fortnam-Tomlinson helped Grays Athletic to a 2-1 success at Burgess Hill Town.

Canvey Island were frustrated at the death as Jason Prior's last-gasp equaliser cancelled out Martin Tuohy's first-half opener at the Frost Financial Stadium.

There were plenty of goals in League One North. Tobin Joseph bagged a brace and David Knight scored from the spot as AFC Hornchurch won 3-0 at Dereham Town.

There was a memorable away day for Great Wakering Rovers as Jay Nash and Tom Ranger (2) helped the villagers to a thrilling 3-2 triumph at Maldon & Tiptree.

David Fallah (2) and Tyler Myers found the net as Aveley saw off Waltham Abbey 3-2 at Mill Field, and there was a 3-1 win for Redbridge at Brightlingsea Regent with Ogboin (2) and Daniel Jones securing the points for the east Londoners.

Tilbury were in decent form. Harry Cook, Emiel Aiken and Neil Richmond ensured a 3-0 win for the Dockers at Romford.

But there were single goal setbacks for Barkingside, at home to high-flying Bury Town, and Thurrock at Wroxham.

A number of the region's clubs embarked on the long road to Wembley, taking part in FA Cup Extra Preliminary Round ties. Their was a shock defeat for Bowers & Pitsea who went down to a single goal against Essex Senior League rivals Ilford at the Len Salmon Stadium.

But there was better news from Basildon United who reached the next stage with an entertaining 3-1 win over Sporting Bengal.

The Bees will be joined in the Preliminary round by Southend Manor, who saw off Codicote by three goals to one at Southchurch Park Arena. Tower Hamlets are also through following a 5-1 success at Wivenhoe Town. But it was a premature end to the Wembley dream for Burnham Ramblers who crashed 4-0 at Cockfosters.

Game of the day in the ProKit UK Essex Olympian League Premier Division saw Southend-based White Ensign recover from a 4-1 deficit to grab a share of the spoils with a 5-5 draw.

Darren Burrell, Yaw Danso, Lee Delf and Gary Ticehurst (2) found the net for Ensign.

Elsewhere in the EOL Old Chelmsfordians won their Senior Division One clash at Ongar Town by the odd goal in three, while Catholic United were 3-1 winners over East Londoners in Division Two.

And there were ten goals in the Division Three clash at the Memorial Ground, where Stambridge went down 7-3 to Broomfield.

Former Canvey and Concord keeper signed by Swansea

FORMER Canvey Island and Concord Rangers goalkeeper Josh Vickers has signed a two-year contract with Barclays Premier League side Swansea City following a successful trial.

The 19-year-old, who was released by Arsenal after spending 12 years with the north London club, spent successful loan periods at both Canvey outfits, becoming a firm favourite with the fans of the clubs.

Vickers impressed Swans manager Garry Monk during a pre-season friendly against 1860 Munich, and now will be once again working with his former team-mate at the Emirates Stadium, Lukasz Fabianski, and former Gunners goalkeeping coach Tony Roberts.

Speaking to Yellow Sport, Vickers said: "I have nothing but good words for Canvey and Concord."

"Over the last two seasons they have helped me develop as a player and also as a person. I can't stress enough the importance of playing men's football week in, week out for a goalkeeper."

Gulls manager Danny Heale added: "He's a great lad, very enthusiastic. He got better and better with us. You knew he was going to push on and make it"

Flat Roofing Guaranteed for Life

High-Tech Roofing have installed and guaranteed over 8,000 domestic projects – every roof we install comes complete with a LIFETIME guarantee, to give you absolute peace of mind.

Over 70% of homes in the UK have a flat roof incorporating a mineral felt finish – that's seven out of ten home owners with a potential flat roof problem...

Mineral felt is prone to a slow breakdown, often allowing water ingress to cause unnecessary problems before being visibly detected within the home. Mineral felt has tendency to blister throughout summer months and eventually becomes brittle and cracks during colder periods. Cracking will also appear around the exposed edges and other points of detail, e.g. around pipes, skylights, flashings into brickwork or under tiles, etc. These areas are where workmanship is most crucial. Felt also attracts moss and algae, further degrading the roof surface.

It is important every homeowner carefully checks their insurance policy. In our experience, a flat roof over ten years and leaking may not be covered by the homeowner's insurance policy. When making a claim, we understand that unless it is proven storm damage causing a flat roof to leak the damage could be seen as wear and tear or poor workmanship; this will leave the homeowner with the financial burden not only for external but also for internal repairs.

In 1999, High-Tech Roofing first introduced the most advanced flat roof technology to the homeowner. Protan, based in Norway, has a pedigree in the design and manufacture of waterproofing materials dating back to 1939, and producing the first roofing membrane in 1971. Protan is our preferred PVC single-ply flat roofing system. Protan will cope with all climates, as millions of square meters are installed here and abroad with a proven track record stretching over four decades. Protan is predominantly an architect-specified roofing system, winning many awards and serving the very competitive commercial sector.

High-Tech has installed and proudly guarantees, over 8000 flat roof installations throughout Essex, Kent and London regions.

A High-Tech roof is dimensionally stable and solar reflective, it is unaffected by climate change and 100% resistant to moss and algae. As it is vapour permeable, it can never blister or become brittle and crack. We will create an anti-slip 100% storm resistant watertight roof-maintenance free and guaranteed never to leak.
